Our knowledgeable and experienced staff is ready to help you select the appropriate first aid products to ensure Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) compliance and worker safety. Our customer service representatives and technical service providers can provide on-site surveys to help you select compliant, economical alternatives for all your first aid needs.

ASSESSING YOUR FIRST AID NEEDS

Providing a comprehensive First Aid Program that includes appropriate supplies and training in the workplace is essential to deliver preliminary emergency treatment on site. In the event of a sudden illness or injury, a trained company representative should be able to perform an initial assessment and have available the necessary equipment to start emergency procedures. Having first aid supplies on hand can help workers stay on the job and keep productive and in certain cases can decrease the severity of the injuries and/or illnesses. More importantly, acting quickly and delivering appropriate first aid can sometimes mean the difference between life and death.

OSHA Requirements for First Aid:

OSHA does not mandate which specific first aid items a company must have available. However, they do require an employer to have suitable first aid on hand. OSHA Regulations (Standards-29CFR 1910.151) Medical Services and First Aid - General Industry. "In the absence of an infirmary, clinic, or hospital in near proximity to workplace which is used for the treatment of all injured employees, a person or persons shall be adequately trained to render first aid. Adequate first aid supplies shall be readily available."

See the following table for regulatory standards that have requirements for first aid. For a full directory of OSHA standards, go to: www.osha.gov (under "Laws & Regulations").

ANSI Z308.1-2009 – American National Standard – Minimum Requirements for Workplace First Aid Kits

This standard establishes the minimum performance requirements for first aid kits and their contents. OSHA 1910.151 Appendix A states the following: "The contents of the kit listed in the ANSI standard should be adequate for small worksites. When larger operations or multiple operations are being conducted at the same location, employers should determine the need for additional first aid kits at the worksite, additional types of first aid equipment and supplies and additional quantities and types of supplies and equipment in the first aid kits."

ASSESS YOUR ENVIRONMENT

North provides an informative First Aid Guide to help you determine your workplace first aid needs. The first step to providing adequate first aid in your workplace entails an assessment of your environment – identify potential hazards and risks; evaluate size and layout of facility; know and understand chemicals or hazardous materials used in the workplace; know your workers and your environment.

RECOGNIZING HAZARDS

To identify hazards, understand the risks associated with specific equipment, chemicals and tasks to be performed in the workplace. Ask the question, 'Does this job/task/activity/situation/event have the potential to endanger?' To make the job of identifying hazards in the workplace easier, prepare and establish the context for the process by identifying:

1. All activities involved in work processes and tasks
2. Who is involved in those activities
3. Items and equipment of the plant and/or materials used

Once hazards have been determined, understand what emergencies may arise, how to initially treat wounds and develop a plan to communicate a course of action and safety program to employees.

It is important to supply the appropriate amount and types of first aid supplies for your work environment, number of employees and anticipated need. It is always a good idea to have more supplies than you think you may need on hand. Be sure to mount first aid stations and/or have first aid kits readily accessible throughout your location.

TRAINING AND EDUCATION

Lastly, a comprehensive safety training and educational program should be developed to train your workforce in first aid procedures. North provides technical assistance as well as a variety of first aid manuals, signs and data sheets to inform and remind your personnel of safety hazards and treatment procedures.

CPR MICROSHIELD®/FILTERSHIELD™

The CPR Microshield® acts as a barrier, designed to protect the rescuer while aiding in administration of the proper CPR technique. Positive one-way valve inside the airway enhancing bite block provides maximum protection of the first responder and assists in keeping an open airway.

The CPR Filtershield™ contains features that set it apart from all other filter barriers. The 2 cm. airway tunnel acts as a bite block assisting the rescuer in maintaining an open airway. The 2 cm. airway is also compatible with adults and children.

BURN PADS/DRESSINGS

Revolutionary hydrogel dressing helps protect against blisters, pressure and friction. Helps bring cooling relief to stings, bites, poison ivy and blisters. A unique, effective antiseptic barrier in the structure of 2nd Skin has been shown to protect the dressing against contamination. The moist pads cool and soothe on contact and won't stick to skin.
